

London muralist fetes immigration

2min

British-Ghanaian artist Neequaye Dreph Dsane applies the final touches of colour to his latest mural enlivening an otherwise drab side street in east London.

His mission is to paint a positive picture of immigrants in Britain, in an era when he feels they are increasingly maligned by gentrification, Brexit and the rise of nationalism.

Photo credit: Twitter/@dreph

Share ↗